Income on Your Schedule

People are living longer after retirement age than they used to. The need for a retirement income plan that will last as long as you live is more important than ever before. For a healthy 65-year-old couple, there is a 67% chance that at least one of them will live to age 90 and a 38% chance that at least one will live to age 95.¹ Be confident that you are ready for a retirement that can last 20 years or longer with a SecureLiving Index Annuity and the optional Income Protection rider.

When you purchase a SecureLiving Index Annuity you can add the Income Protection rider to your contract for an additional cost. By doing so, you are adding a guaranteed stream of income withdrawals that will last as long as you live. It's like creating a guaranteed "paycheck" for the rest of your life.

You can begin taking income withdrawals as quickly as year 2 of your contract – without requiring that you annuitize your contract. While income withdrawals are subtracted from your contract value, your remaining contract value can continue to earn interest according to your allocated fixed and index crediting strategies.

What You'll Get From The Income Protection Rider:

Protection Once you begin income withdrawals, you lock in your annual withdrawal limit. Your lifetime withdrawals are guaranteed to never decrease unless you exceed the withdrawal limit (excess withdrawal). Until you begin income withdrawals, your future guaranteed income amount may increase.

Security Receive an income withdrawal each year for as long as you live, guaranteed.

Flexibility Start and stop your income stream as your needs change.

The Optional Income Protection Rider Offers:

- ▶ Your initial benefit base is immediately 8% higher than your premium²
- ▶ Simple-interest roll-up credited daily to the benefit base totalling 8% each year for 10 years, or until you decide to begin income withdrawals, whichever comes first
- ▶ After the 10 year roll-up period, if income withdrawals have not started, the benefit base will increase dollar for dollar based on interest credited to your contract value until income withdrawals begin
- ▶ Once income withdrawals have started, you can defer up to one year's worth of income withdrawals to be taken at a future time

² The benefit base is used only to calculate the rider income withdrawals and is not a representation of the contract value or surrender value.

How it Works

When you add the optional Income Protection rider to your SecureLiving Index Annuity, your guaranteed income will be based on the benefit base and the age of the youngest annuitant at the time you start taking income withdrawals. Your initial benefit base equals your single premium multiplied by the 108% enhanced benefit base percentage. Your benefit base is guaranteed to increase daily by an annualized 8% simple interest rate for 10 years or until you decide to begin income withdrawals, whichever comes first. Even if your selected index crediting strategies provide zero contract value growth, your benefit base is guaranteed to grow for the earlier of 10 years or until you decide to receive income withdrawals. This rider is available for annuitants who are ages 55 to 80.

Guaranteed Income, Added Protection

Once you initiate income withdrawals, your benefit base stops growing and is multiplied by the withdrawal factor to determine your guaranteed withdrawal limit. As long as you don't take any excess withdrawals, you are guaranteed to be able to receive that amount each contract year – for the rest of your life. Regardless of whether the market takes a downturn or your index-based crediting strategy posts zero gains, your benefit base is guaranteed to never go down, as long as you don't make withdrawals over your withdrawal limit.

Step Up-Feature

Before you start income withdrawals, on each contract anniversary and the day you start income withdrawals, if the contract value is higher than the benefit base, your benefit base will be stepped up to the contract value.

Benefits of Waiting

When you begin taking income withdrawals, your annual withdrawal limit is determined by multiplying your benefits base by the withdrawal factor that corresponds with the then current age of the youngest annuitant. The longer you wait to begin receiving income, the higher your withdrawal limit can be.

Guaranteed Withdrawal Factors

Age of Youngest Annuitant	Ages 55-59	Ages 60-64	Ages 65-69	Ages 70-74	Ages 75-79	Ages 80 and above
Annuitant	4.00%	4.50%	5.00%	5.50%	6.00%	6.50%
Joint-annuitant	3.50%	4.00%	4.50%	5.00%	5.50%	6.00%

Benefit Base Enhancement

Your initial benefit base is immediately 8% higher than your premium.

Answers to Your Questions

How much does the rider cost?

An annual charge of 0.95%, based on your benefit base, is deducted annually from your contract value and the minimum guaranteed surrender value at the end of each contract year (state variations apply).

Can I cancel the rider?

You can cancel the rider on any contract anniversary after the surrender charge period.

How do you determine my benefit base?

Your initial benefit base equals your single premium multiplied by the 108% enhanced benefit base percentage. And is guaranteed to increase daily by an annualized 8% simple interest rate for 10 years or until you decide to begin income withdrawals, whichever comes first. If after 10 years you have not elected to begin receiving income, then it can continue to grow by the same amount of interest credited to the contract value.

How do you determine how much I can withdraw each year?

We take your benefit base and multiply it by the withdrawal factor that corresponds to the age of the youngest annuitant on the date you begin receiving income withdrawals, which establishes your withdrawal limit.

Can I take less than my withdrawal limit each year?

You can always take less than the withdrawal limit each year. In fact, if you don't need the full amount you can defer up to one year's worth of income withdrawals at any time for future payments. If you already have one year's worth of income withdrawals deferred and have not taken it, no additional amounts may be deferred.

Can I take more than my withdrawal limit each year?

You can take more than your withdrawal limit each year. If you need more than the withdrawal limit, and have previously deferred income withdrawals, you can take the additional deferred income withdrawals without causing an excess withdrawal.

If you take an excess withdrawal in a contract year, your benefit base will be reduced by the same proportion that the excess amount, including surrender charges, market value adjustments or any other charges that may apply, reduces the contract value. See the contract for more detail. Excess income withdrawals can significantly reduce your withdrawal limit for future contract years. Continuing to take withdrawals greater than your withdrawal limit could cause you to forfeit your lifetime income withdrawals.

Can I take a withdrawal from my contract without turning on my income rider?

Yes. You can take a withdrawal from your contract without turning on your income rider. Your withdrawal will decrease your contract value and, as long as it is less than or equal to the free withdrawal amount, it will not be subject to a surrender charge and market value adjustment. It will also impact your income rider. Any withdrawals taken prior to the first income withdrawal will decrease the roll-up base (initially equal to your premium multiplied by the 108% enhanced benefit base percentage) and benefit base proportionally by the same percentage any withdrawals decrease your contract value.

How long can I wait before beginning income withdrawals?

You can start taking income withdrawals anytime after the first contract year. However, it is important to strike the right balance between waiting long enough and waiting too long. Deferring when you begin income payments too long can reduce the likelihood that you will get the most value from the optional Income Protection rider.

If I annuitize my contract, will the income from the rider stop?

Yes. If you decide to annuitize your contract, the income from your rider stops and you will begin to receive guaranteed income in the form of annuity payments based on the then current contract value. The payments may be more or less than payments under the rider.

What happens if I die before beginning income?

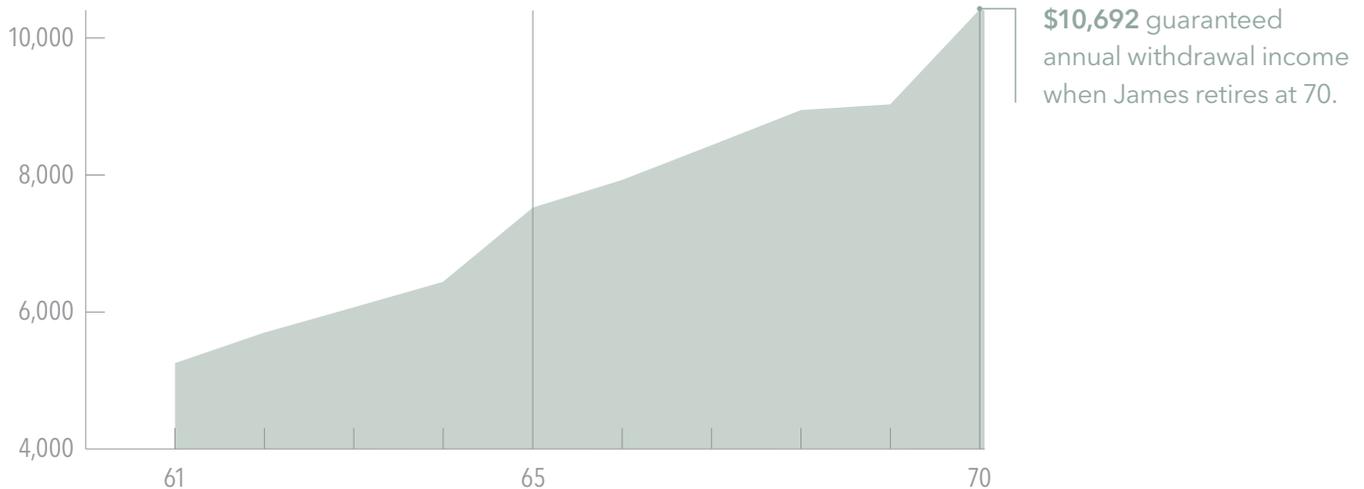

Your beneficiaries will receive the death benefit for your contract.

Hypothetical Example

James is 60 years old and nearing retirement. He wants a guaranteed source of income to supplement what he will receive from Social Security and his company pension. James uses $100,000 of his retirement savings to purchase a SecureLiving Index 7 fixed index annuity and the optional Income Protection rider. He plans to begin making income withdrawals when at age 70. His initial benefit base equals $108,000 and because he delays taking withdrawals for the first 10 years, his benefit base will grow by the guaranteed roll-up factor, 8% of the $108,000 ($8,640) each year. Over time, the withdrawal factor that is used to determine his withdrawal limit also increases. If James begins to take income withdrawals at age 70 as planned, he is guaranteed to be able to take an income withdrawal of $10,692 (withdrawal factor of 5.5% x $194,400 benefit base) each year for the rest of his life. If James waits longer than 10 years to begin income withdrawals, his benefit base will increase by the same amount as interest credited to his contract value until he begins income withdrawals.

James can be comfortable knowing that, if he doesn't need his income withdrawals when he originally planned to take them, he can wait to begin them. Or if his plans change, he can begin his income withdrawals at any time after the first contract year.

Guaranteed Annual Withdrawal Limits and the Benefits of Waiting

Because James is waiting to begin his income withdrawals till at age 70, his guaranteed income withdrawal limit grows daily until then. He will then be eligible to begin taking $10,692 per year in income withdrawals for the rest of his life. If he decides to wait to begin income withdrawals, his withdrawal limit can continue to grow.

End of Contract Year	Age	Guaranteed Benefit Base	Withdrawal Factor	Guaranteed Annual Withdrawal Limit*
Issue	60	$108,000	N/A	N/A
1	61	$116,640	4.50%	$5,249
2	62	$125,280	4.50%	$5,638
3	63	$133,920	4.50%	$6,026
4	64	$142,560	4.50%	$6,415
5	65	$151,200	5.00%	$7,560
6	66	$159,840	5.00%	$7,992
7	67	$168,480	5.00%	$8,424
8	68	$177,120	5.00%	$8,856
9	69	$185,760	5.00%	$9,288
10	70	$194,400	5.50%	$10,692

James' planned retirement income, $10,692

If James' plans change, he can begin income withdrawals anytime after the first year. He can be comfortable knowing that if he decides to begin his income withdrawals during the year the benefit base has increased daily by the annualized 8% simple interest credit. He doesn't have to wait until a contract anniversary to get the credit to the benefit base.

If James waits longer than 10 years to begin income withdrawals, his benefit base can continue to increase. Following the 10th year and until he begins income withdrawals, his benefit base will then increase by the same amount as interest credited to his contract value until he begins income withdrawals.

*This chart assumes that income withdrawals begin at the end of the 10th year. The guaranteed annual withdrawal limit shown in earlier years represent what the income withdrawal would have been had James started income withdrawals earlier. Once income withdrawals begin, the guaranteed annual withdrawal limit is locked in and would not change unless and excess withdrawal is taken.
